AFRICAN-AMERICAN WOMAN

FOR A FREE STORYTELLER PERFORMANCE AND HOW-TO WORKSHOP

MAY 21, Friday, 7pm Performance
by Pamela Talbert Hamilton
At Common Space, 1700 N. Reynolds Rd.
Storyteller/Actress/Writer/Singer

MAY 22, Saturday, 9am - 4pm Workshop Learn & Practice Storytelling, Kent Branch Library, 3101 Collingwood Blvd.

African-American women are invited to a FREE workshop and performance to learn the art of storytelling. The workshop is free and open to mature and senior citizen African-American women, as well as women of all ages, to learn the art of storytelling and to portray prominent and not-so prominent African-American Women in History.

The goal of the program is to train African-American women to be storytelling artists and living history re-enactors who may then be employed, or volunteer in schools, senior centers, libraries or other venues throughout the year – not just during Black History Month.

The Arts Council Lake Erie West (ACLEW) and Pamela Talbert Hamilton of Columbus, Ohio, storyteller/actress/writer/singer, have teamed up to present this program with partial grant support from the Ohio Arts Council.

Enrollment is limited to 20 serious participants who must attend the Friday, May 21, 7pm performance at Common Space, 1700 N. Reynolds Rd., Toledo, and the six-hour workshop on Saturday, May 22 from 9am-4pm at Kent Branch Library, 3101 Collingwood Blvd., Toledo. Lunch will be provided. This workshop will help participants to sharpen their skills in storytelling and acting through an active drama workshop where we will be creating a character(s), reading out loud, and practicing before small groups. Additionally, participants will be assisted in creating promotional material about themselves, their characters, and outlines of how the life of the character can fit into various school curriculum areas.
